WEDNESDAY, DEC. 9, 1874.

THE HOMESTEAD BILL.

Mr. Hanner of Chatham deserves the honor and credit of introducing this bill at an early day in the session, and the House of Representatives will receive the thanks of the whole State for its prompt and almost unanimous passage of the bill. One hundred and two voted for it, and only eight were found recorded against it, and this for reasons for which they will be able to give their constituents a good account.

One good inference is to be drawn from this, and that is the fidelity with which the Conservative party is carrying out its pledges to work for the good of the whole people. They have promised to recognize at the earliest possible moment the universal demand to extend the Homestead to a few simple. The party in the House has done so emphatically. The Senate will do the same with a like significance of vote. This ought to set at rest forever the agitation that has been expressed touching this matter, as connected with the question of a Convention. What the Legislature has done in response to the popular demand, it may be assumed as certain that a Convention will also do, even with augmented force.

Let the Convention agitation then be pushed, for here is one of its great obstacles removed at the very threshold.

Below we publish the bill as introduced in the House:

A BILL CONCERNING THE HOMESTEAD AND PERSONAL PROPERTY EXEMPTION.

Introduced by Mr. Hanner.

Sec. 1. Every homestead and the dwellings and buildings belonging thereto, not exceeding in value one thousand dollars, to be selected by the owner or his agent, or in his absence, at the option of the owner, any lot in a city, town or village, with the dwelling and buildings belonging thereto, owned and occupied by any resident of this State, not exceeding one thousand dollars in value, shall be forever exempt from sale under execution or other legal process, obtained on any debt contracted after the ratification of this act. But no property shall be exempt from sale for taxes, or the payment of obligations contracted for the purchase of said premises.

Sec. 2. Nothing in this act shall prevent a laborer's lien for work performed for the person desiring such exemption, or a mechanic's lien for work done on the premises.

Sec. 3. This act to take effect from and after its ratification.

THE PUBLIC DEBT.

This all important question, in which the honor of the State is so deeply involved, and upon which its future prosperity so much depends. Will receive during the present session of the Legislature the attention it demands. Whether a satisfactory solution will be reached it is too early to predict. Certainly all that talent, integrity and energy can do will be accomplished. With a debt of nearly thirty nine millions of dollars, and the resources of the State, great as they doubtless are, so imperfectly developed, it is a burden upon the shoulders of the Legislature they will find it difficult to bear, and they cannot expect to give universal satisfaction. Yet by disregarding altogether some classes of the bonds, and by compromises with others, they may put the debt in a manageable and intelligible shape.

The joint committee on the Public Debt, we learn, have the whole matter in hand, and will report as soon as practicable.

Internal revenue men, assessors, gaugers and all the persistent swarm that has overrun the country during the last eight years, seem to have acted as if there was never to be a day of reckoning for them; as if their powers of oppression were never to be questioned, and as if their absorptive capacities for corruption were never to be questioned. The whole system has been worked in the interests of party, to keep up party organization, to reward party friends, and to harass or crush party enemies. And the system is an odious one, entirely foreign to the habits and feelings of our people.

The lessons of the late election have not been without effect even in this particular. It was one of the many effective weapons used against the republican party, that it maintained an immense standing army, whose only test of merit was fidelity to party and obedience to orders.

We are glad to see that the District Attorney of N. C., Mr. Badger, has brought up something of the operating sentiment and is prosecuting unscrupulous officers, and vigorously, and that without regard to race or previous condition. Mr. Badger, an ex-State Senator has been convicted of fraudulent charges and sentenced two years in the Albany Penitentiary and one thousand dollar fine. A few more like exam-

THE CAROLINA CENTRAL.

But a week or ten days at most will elapse before the road is complete, and then our favorite North Carolina City, the enterprising and growing city of Wilmington will have completed one link in the highway which is at no remote day to connect her with the great West, and make her among, if not the most important port on the Southern Coast. North Carolinians ought to feel a pride in the enormous amount by any possible and lawful means, of the road which in its arms is to reach North Carolina. It has not altogether been built by North Carolina capital, at least its terminus is North Carolina, and its benefits to redound to the benefit of North Carolina. Wilmington is the only port on our Coast which seems likely to grow up into a large city. What the remote future of Beaufort may be, we will not venture to prophesy. But with the completion of the Carolina Central, and the removal of the obstructions of the Cape Fear River and the improvement of the navigation of the river, the grand future of Wilmington is near at hand. There is nothing wanting, but the pushing through of the Western extension to the Mississippi valley connections, to make Wilmington bound at once to its great destiny.

It is to be hoped that something may be accomplished at the present session of the Legislature, to bring about this result, a result as desirable and important to our own West as it is to Wilmington.

PUBLIC ROADS.

We hope the Legislature will give attention to some things of moment, though often thought below the dignity of grave legislation. There is nothing that requires so thorough an overhauling, or rather which demands such thorough reparation, as the present road system. Something entirely new is wanted. The present laws seem to be antiquated when aimed to declare a lawful road. When it is proposed to widen a foot wide clear of stumps and runners, and all the duties performed upon it. When a new road is just before the meeting of the Courts, the hands run over it, put a few fine spots to attract public notice, and then a little dirt, and then Grand Jurors smother their consciences, and accept the work as well done. This would be farcical if it were not so. It is hypocrisy which covers up an admitted evil, an evil felt by none more keenly than those who covet it, or rather authorize it.

There are many men in the Legislature, of practical views, and of ripe experience. Let them take hold of the matter, and present some plan by which the road system can be altered, by which the country Commissioners of each county, or a Road Commissioner if preferred, shall be put in charge of the roads in each county; by which the number of roads declared to be public shall be reduced; by which those reserved for use, or for preservation and repair under the supervision of the Commissioner, shall be kept in order; and by which a tax, sufficient for a maintenance of these roads, shall be levied in each county, and properly secured, and appropriately used.

It is time, not only that a disaster shall be wiped out, but that the people shall learn that time is money, that economy is wisdom, and learn too, that the more of our fathers will not do for their sons, when all else is changed and changing.

CARRYING SIDE ARMS.

Young Elliott is just about to take his place in the Penitentiary for 5 years; a mild punishment for his offense, a victim to the practice of carrying weapons, and being always ready to resist, in a deadly way, any insult offered to the dignity of manhood. One young man killed another, without a moment's warning, for the utterance of a harsh word, and another young man, stopped on the very threshold of life, checked in a bright career, and consigned to a felon's doom, and why? Because custom has sanctioned the use of deadly weapons, and because their application is so ready a way, instant skill, without courage, and without reflection, to resent insult and avenge injury.

It is time this thing should be stopped, if golden opinion cannot be wrought up to that point to pronounce the carrying of concealed weapons barbarous and cowardly, then the law, which is often seen in advance of public opinion for the protection of society, must speak. If it cannot speak, it must indicate a penalty. If it cannot indicate a penalty, it must indicate the power of society, and the lives of the citizens by mild means, it must use forcible ones.

Some day, some time, there is no record of violence or death growing out of this kind of habit. There is nothing in the condition of the country to justify it. There is no political feeling high enough to warrant it. There is no disorder in the social order requiring a man always to be ready for combat. The law is against it. We are glad to see that Mr. Fields of Alleghany has introduced a bill to restrain and punish the carrying of concealed weapons, and hope it will at once become the law of the land for the sake of the good name of the State, and for the preservation of the lives and liberties of so many of its citizens.

The News says, there are five hundred and five prisoners in the State Penitentiary, and new arrivals are daily increasing. It is quite certain that this branch of our State institutions is likely to become the most popular as well as the most populous.

Rev. Dr. U. F. Deems of New York, the editor of the Christian Age, is in attendance upon the N. O. conference at Raleigh.

Judge Bond sentenced J. W. Beatty, formerly a radical Senator from Hertford, to 4 years hard labor in the Albany Penitentiary, for forgery. A more fitting place for him and all such.

Hon. Samuel F. Phillips, Assistant Attorney General is in Raleigh.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The President and Speaker Blaine begged this evening.

The Postmaster General forbids letter-carriers to solicit gifts by New Year's address or otherwise.

The Court, in its general term, decided that the Grand Jury which indicted Harrington and others, for the safe indictment. This decision, it is understood, relieves Harrington and those indicted with him from further trouble.

New York, Dec. 2.—Arguments on the writ of habeas corpus granted to Wm. M. Barrett were heard to-day before Judge Barrett, in the City and Terminals Court. David Dudley Field and ex-Judge Comstock speaking in behalf of the prisoner, and District Attorney Phelps for the people. The prisoner being unwell, he was not brought to court. The district attorney made a motion to quash the writ on the ground there was no question as to the court which had granted the writ, and having an inherent jurisdiction in criminal cases, and it was not for a judge of higher jurisdiction to review its proceedings. There was neither law, nor equity, or precedent for such a course, and therefore he begged that the writ be quashed, and the prisoner remanded and left to his remedy elsewhere.

For the prisoner, it was argued that error was a show proceeding, and the prisoner challenged the jurisdiction of the court to try the case or pass the first of the numerous sentences of any of the subsequent ones. The first term had expired and the fine paid and the prisoner challenged the jurisdiction of the court or its competency to pass the second sentence, and also questioned the mode of compelling the jury and their competency to sit. These were jurisdictional questions properly arising under the habeas corpus.

Judge Barrett, in deciding, pointed out that though there is a provision made for investigating the acts of a civil court where it exceeds its jurisdiction, none is made in the case of a criminal court, and the remedy is by writ of error, and the judge was to review the acts of a criminal judge sitting in the same court. The writ of error or writ of habeas corpus was then granted.

The court then granted the motion to quash.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Mr. Mallett's report shows that sites for proposed public buildings at Helena and Little Rock have been purchased. It was necessary to resort to condemnation to secure the property at Grand Rapids. In many instances North Carolina appropriations are inadequate, prices advanced under condemnation bring in excess. Memphis has presented property to the Government for public buildings, value at $400,000.

The old custom-house lot, at Norfolk, has been sold at auction. The custom-house, court-house, and post-office, at Knoxville, have been completed with the appropriation. The buildings at Columbia will be completed within the present year. The recommendation regarding the custom-house at New Orleans are renewed, special attention is called to remodeling and extending the custom-house at Pensacola.

MAYANA, Dec. 2.—The police, assisted by a force of volunteers, forcibly drove the gold miners off the streets to-day. On the 21st ultimo, Spanish troops encountered a host of insurgents much superior in number. A stubborn fight ensued, in which the Spaniards lost forty-six killed and wounded. The insurgent loss is unknown. Reports from other sections of the island represent that there have been other slight engagements, causing small loss.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—A communication from General Sheridan says that after thorough examination it is found that Big Tree has not violated his parole, and he therefore remains undisturbed in the Indian country.

It is known in diplomatic circles that Spain has paid to Great Britain lately a part of the indemnity on account of the Virginia affair, leaving the remainder and 600,000 to be hereafter adjusted.

No one doubts that the President will accept the resignation of District Judge Daniel of Louisiana, just tendered. Durell thus terminates the proposed impeachment pending in the House Committee on the Judiciary.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Night of the 4th, when his incendiary ride through the Valley of Virginia, is dead.

Basin, Paton and Ireland have been indicted, and referred to the Fifth Circuit Court for trial.

The Secretary of War, in his report, suggests that measures be taken to relieve various States from indebtedness for arms supplied to them during the war.

At present a reduction of the army is discouraged.

An appropriation is urged for a permanent military police.

Superior Court rendered his resignation, to take effect February 1st, and was confirmed that his individual resignation is desired.

Several members of the House party in the Arkansas controversy carried over to fight for the purpose of presenting their case to Congress and urging a decision as to the validity of the military constitution.

One of the great wants which stock raisers have to contend with in the South is the lack of good winter pasturage for their animals. Most of us have thought that about the only pasturage we could have

for our stock during winter was rye, barley,

or something of that kind; but we have just seen one of our most successful planters,

who informs us that for some years he has been raising rescue grass for that purpose,

and finds it far superior to barley or any other clover he has ever tried or seen tried in the Southern States for pasturage during winter. He says it ought to be sown in September, but may be sown successfully in October. The land should be thoroughly prepared by deep plowing, and the seed

very broad cast; and if the land is not rich

some good fertilizer should be used. The grass may be pastured during the entire winter, until about the last of March or first of April, when the stock should be taken off, and about the month of May a good crop of seed will be produced, which will remain on the ground until the ensuing fall, when it will come up just in time for the next winter's use, so that one sowing is all that is ever required. The land, however, after the grass has produced its seed, may be planted in corn, or it may be sown in peas, to be turned under with a good turn-plow, which would greatly enrich

the land and thereby produce a better crop of grass. From our knowledge of the gentleman from whom we got this information, we have every confidence in it.

ABOUT HOUSE PLANTS.

Some complain of their plants growing

spindling and weak, and giving no bloom.

One fault is too high a temperature, with too much water a portion of the time, during the day, and too low a one at night.

When this is the case they grow sickly and diseased and we hear the often repeated complaint "I can't keep plants, they don't do well; what do you do to yours?" You want strong yet growthy plants to secure bloom and beauty. Every day when I water, I turn my plants, and thus keep them even and stately, by allowing every side the advantage of the sun. A slip will grow during the winter and become a large flowering plant in a four inch pot, if judiciously watered and cared for. When a plant takes up its allowance of moisture

daily from the saucer, it is doing well and growing rapidly. Coarse earthen pots, without glazing, are the best to use, as they are porous, and absorb any superfluous
